

ABOUT HONEY

Paramedical Micropigmentation specialist Honey Secunda has been a make-up artist since 1978. She specialized in professional make-up for models and TV personalities before attending the American Institute of of Intra-dermal Cosmetics and the Beau Institute to become a professional Micropigmentation Specialist enhancing peoples lives permanently. Her mission is to help men and women feel complete and confident with the use of permanent pigmentation of the skin in the eyes, lips, brows and breasts as well as help with Alopecia, hair line restoration, vitiligo blending and camouflaging of scars.

Honey also enjoys being part of the reconstruction process for women recovering from breast cancer surgery. She minimizes scars and reconstructs the color of the areola after a mastectomy; helping women to complete their reconstruction. Treatments can also help after hair loss with the restoration of a hair line.

Permanent cosmetic makeup is the art and science of implanting color into your skin. Specialized instruments can place color into the dermis layer of skin permanently. Permanent cosmetic makeup helps replenish what time has taken away and gives back precious time usually spent daily applying and removing temporary makeup, not to mention the money saved on those temporary cosmetics and makeup removers. Permanent cosmetics do not rub off, smear or smudge.

As the name implies, permanent makeup is long lasting but may fade after a few years. The darker the color the longer it will stay unchanged in your skin. Many customers find they want more or darker color after they become accustomed to their new changes. Natural, delicate colors are oftentimes more vulnerable to the effects of the sun, swimming and breakdown by the body. Both organic and inorganic pigments may be used to achieve the desired color.
